Sandman - please read re: innappropriately touched

I read your disclaimer re: my 12/4/00 posting about a woman who was inappropriately touched during a sleep study. I also saw that you edited my message removing the sleep disorder center's name, and that you deleted my messages in other forums.

The woman in question has gone through a horrible ordeal, while the perpetrator still lurks and works at the center.

The session was not videotaped and the audio tape was mysteriously erased the next morning.

I was hoping to find someone who perhaps had a similary horrifying experience so that a potential civil case could be bolstered, and that most importantly the perpetrator be denied the opportunity to repeat the offense on another unsuspecting woman.

If you know any woman who has gone through any type of forced sexual touching, I suggest you discuss with her your "rules" and how they pertain to my message.

I am outraged that you not allow this type of information exchange to take place in this forum.
